

For the birds

The Carolina Raptor Center at Latta Plantation Park on Mountain Island Lake will soon open a new Environmental Education building that will feature a cathedral-like exhibit hall, gift shop, rustic courtyard and aviaries for viewing more than 20 species of birds of prey, such as this screech owl. To raise money for operating the new building, the organization is selling imprinted bricks, which will be permanently placed in the courtyard and walkways. Each costs $35 and has room for three lines of print (with 17 characters each). The fund-raiser will be ongoing, but if you'd like a brick in place before the April grand opening, order soon. For more information, call 875-6521.
